

Oxford Review of Economic Policy

Vol. 23, No. 3, Autumn 2007

www.oxrep.oxfordjournals.org

---

The WTO and Multilateral Trade Cooperation

Edited by Bernard Hoekman and David Vines

Contents

Multilateral trade cooperation: what next? Bernard Hoekman and David Vines	311
An enduring need: multilateralism in the twenty-first century Anne Krueger	335
Why is it so difficult? Trade liberalization under the Doha Agenda Will Martin and Patrick Messerlin	347
The political economy of services trade liberalization: a case for international regulatory cooperation? Bernard Hoekman, Aaditya Mattoo, and André Sapir	367
Five hypotheses concerning the fate of the Singapore issues in the Doha Round Simon J. Evenett	392
Trade adjustment in the WTO system: are more safeguards the answer? Chad P. Bown and Rachel McCulloch	415
Implementation and imbalance: dealing with hangover from the Uruguay Round J. Michael Finger	440
Coherence and the WTO L. Alan Winters	461
Aid and trade Akiko Suwa-Eisenmann and Thierry Verdier	481
Regional free-trade areas: sorting out the tangled spaghetti Ross Garnaut and David Vines	508